

Asset Universe

The diagram consists of a large yellow circle labeled 'Asset Universe'. Inside this circle are two overlapping circles: a purple one on the left and an orange one on the right. The purple circle is labeled 'Uses that do not affect physical characteristics of other assets'. The orange circle is labeled 'Uses on which privilege is granted'. The intersection of these two circles is shaded in a darker purple. Two callout boxes on the right side of the diagram are connected to the main circles by lines. The top callout box, which is purple, is connected to the purple circle and contains the text 'Intellectual Property is possible'. The bottom callout box, which is yellow, is connected to the yellow area of the 'Asset Universe' circle and also contains the text 'Intellectual Property is possible'.
